

Part-time Faculty Council

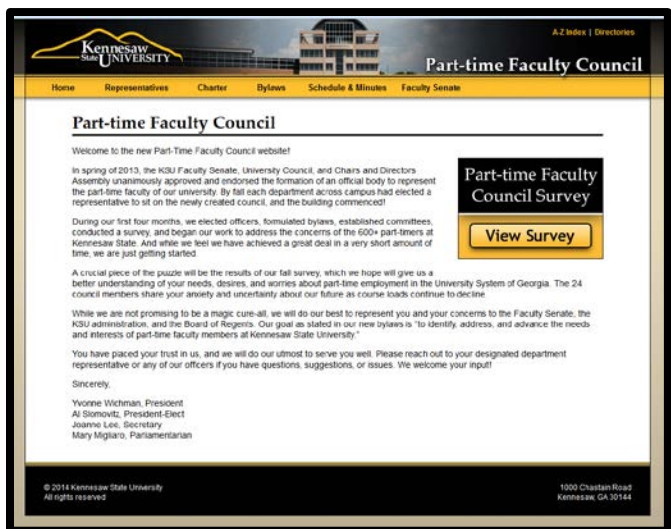

Kennesaw State University

Welcome Part-time Faculty Members,

In the spring of 2013, Kennesaw State University (KSU) approved the creation of a Part-time Faculty Council (PTFC) that would give part-time faculty members a voice in shared governance at the university. Your council is the first of its kind and currently serves as a model for other universities.

The council of representatives from each department met for the first time in September and has met monthly since its inception. The PTFC council elected officers in October. Under the leadership of President Yvonne Wichman, the council has made impressive strides toward accomplishing its mission to represent the views and concerns of part-time faculty members. The PTFC has written and submitted bylaws to the Faculty Senate and established a meeting schedule. The council has also surveyed part-time faculty to determine its focus.

Below you will find a screenshot of the Homepage of the website created for the Part-time Faculty Council. It contains a letter from the PTFC officers. You can follow the work of the council and provide input to the council. <http://www.kennesaw.edu/faculty/ptfc/index.php>

You will also notice a link to the results of Part-Time Faculty Council survey that was created and distributed in November by the PTFC Research Committee. Of 704 part-time faculty members, 329 part-time faculty members responded to the survey. That is a participation rate of 47%.

Of primary interest is the composition of the part-time faculty at KSU. Based on the responses, we are a well-educated and experienced group. Although we are a transient group, 33% of the responders have worked at Kennesaw State University for five or more years. Among those 95 educators, 18 of them have been at KSU 15 or more years. Our educational experience breaks down as follows:

- 25% of the responders hold a Doctoral degree
- 16% of the responders have Doctoral Coursework (ABD)
- 58% of the responders hold a Master’s degree
- 1% of the responders hold an Undergraduate degree.

Based on the committee’s analysis of the survey, the PTFC Research Committee identified the top five concerns of the responders. As indicated below, the concerns are related to salary, recognition, and benefits.

President Yvonne Wichman has been actively engaged as a member of consolidation committees, as our representative to the Faculty Senate, and in drafting two “White Papers” regarding awards and recognition for part-time faculty. The Executive Council has created two committees to address the concerns. The PTFC Research Committee is contacting other universities to determine how part-time faculty are paid, recognized, and given access to travel and professional learning opportunities. The PTFC Executive Committee, composed of the council officers, is preparing a “White Paper” to express concerns related to parking fees for part-time faculty. Dr. Keene, the PTFC liaison to the Faculty Senate, and Dr. Stephen Barlett have been instrumental in assisting the executive committee as facilitators and mentors in working through the formal processes used to address issues. In addition, a PTFC Public Relations Committee has been set up. There will be periodic newsletters, but part-time faculty can also consult the website for information.
